

TRIPLE PLAY

With an optimistic nod to our future, we have added two new associates and one new partner to our team.

Marc Dunning joined our firm in 2007 as an articled clerk and since his call to the Bar, has been an associate. He is now our newest partner.

In a previous life, Marc was a Professional Engineer and he has brought that discipline to his legal practice, which focuses on all things environmental, particularly contaminated sites, along with construction disputes and professional negligence claims.

Marc is a co-author of the leading text on climate change law in Canada and a regular columnist for the Environmental Policy & Law Newsletter.

Marc has been active for several years in leadership capacities with The Clean Nova Scotia Foundation, the Environmental Services Association of Nova Scotia and the Canadian Bar Association. In his spare time he teaches a course in Business & Environmental Law at the Schulich School of Law.

Our new associate, Theresa Graham, hails from a prolific and successful family of lawyers and jurists. Theresa is a 2010 graduate of the Schulich School of Law at Dalhousie and for the past four years practiced law with a well-known Dartmouth law firm.

Theresa garnered a broad range of experience in civil litigation and estate matters, including probate and estate litigation. Theresa is active in the Nova Scotia Branch of the Canadian Bar Association and serves on the Board of the Halifax International Busker Society.

Theresa and her spouse reside in the HRM and both are kept busy by their young son.

Our new associate, Kirk Emery, was called to the Bar in 2014 after receiving his law degree from McGill. Kirk is a member of our corporate team and is involved with drafting and negotiating loan agreements, representing secured and unsecured creditors and advising small business on all manner of transactions.

Kirk is also a member of the New York State and American Bar Associations.

We are proud of our history. With Marc, Theresa and Kirk, we have three more great reasons to be excited about our future!
